YOUNG SLAYERS BEGIN SENTENCE

Leopold and Loeb Placed in Joliet Penitentiary.

HAD CLOSE CALL ON ROAD

Automobile in Which the Pair Were Riding Is Steered Into Railway Tracks to Avoid Collision—State's Attorney Crowe Guards Against Possible Pardon or Parole of Prisoners—Prepares Review of Case.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Richard Loeb and Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., slayers of Robert Franks, Chicago schoolboy, are in Joliet penitentiary.

The pair were taken last night to Joliet in an automobile, closely guarded by an armed escort from Chicago. The prisoners were received at the penitentiary by Warden John L. Whitman, who put the pair through the routine established by prison regulations. At the main prison gate, the car containing the prisoners was surrounded by a cordon of armed deputies, the heavy gates opened wide enough to admit a man's body, and in less than a half minute, the two young murderers were within the walls of the penitentiary with the doors closed behind them.

The two young prisoners lost their identity in the state prison and became numbers 9365 and 9366.

Leopold and Loeb had a narrow escape when the powerful automobile carrying them to prison swerved sharply at a point on the trip and dived into the unballasted tracks of an electric railway suddenly righted itself and bounced 50 yards down the center of the right of way before it was stopped. The breaks on the car ahead of the boys had burned and stuck, bringing it to an immediate stop. To avoid smashing into it, the driver of the Loeb-Leopold car steered at a right angle into the rails and ties and avoided a crash.

Crowe's Final Move.

State's Attorney Crowe finished his fight to make certain that Leopold and Loeb spend the rest of their lives in the penitentiary.

Crowe prepared a complete review of the case sent with the prisoners to the prison at Joliet. He calls it a "statement of fact" and hopes that it will form a record so secure that no pardon or parole board at any time in the future will release the young slayers from the penitentiary. In addition, Crowe forwarded all of the "people's exhibits," all the evidence he presented during the murder hearing before Chief Justice John Caverly.

"We want to make the record clear and clean," the state's attorney said, "so that no efforts of the defense will succeed in setting these murderers free. The state's attorney presented an air-tight case that should have resulted in hangings. The court decided otherwise, and now the responsibility lies in other hands than in mine. Since they can not be hanged, I trust they shall never be freed from prison."

Crowe refused to allow Sheriff Peter Hoffman to take the prisoners to Joliet immediately after sentence was pronounced, insisting that the documents be sent with them.

A portion of the heavy police guard thrown about the jail and criminal court building Wednesday was maintained because of fresh threats to bomb the buildings. Through a drizzling rain two squads of uniformed officers patrolled the streets and alley surrounding the jail. Another squad was stationed in front of the adjoining court building. Inside the building four special guards watched over Loeb and Leopold. Others held posts at upper floor windows to flash any signs of danger. All the guards were heavily armed.

Forty men claim a share in the $6,000 reward offered for the capture and conviction of the slayers of Robert Franks. Chief of Police Collins, who offered a reward of $1,000, while Jacob Franks, father of the slain boy, offered $5,000, together with Mr. Franks and Mayor Dever, it is understood, will appoint a committee to distribute the rewards.

The chief praised the police department in connection with the case, remarking: "It will be remembered that the officers had nothing to serve as a definite clue, save Leopold's glasses. I am proud of my men."

Clarence O. Baring of White Plains, N. Y., accused of trying to murder his wife by putting disease germs and poison into her food, was committed to the Matteawan state hospital for insane.

REMAINS UNSOLVED

Mystery of the Disappearance of Gems Valued at $250,000.

New York, Sept. 12.—The disappearance of gems valued at $250,000 from the Long Island home of J. S. Cosden, where Lord and Lady Mountbatten are guests, remains unsolved. Investigators are convinced that entry was not forced from the outside of the building. They were more puzzled than ever in their search for a clue when they learned that a steward employed by Mr. Cosden had been on duty on the ground floor of the house throughout the night. In addition there were guards on duty continually on the grounds of the estate. Articles stolen from Mrs. Cosden, it was learned, included a black pearl ring, valued at $10,000; a pink pearl ring valued at $25,000 and a pigeon blood ruby ring valued at upwards of $30,000. Lady Mountbatten lost rings and bracelets valued at $15,000.

WILLS FINDS WILD BULL EASY MARK

Outslugs and Outpoints Firpo in Every Round.

LATTER'S RIGHT OF NO AVAL

Negro Heavyweight Gives Fine Exhibition of Ring Craft and at Same Time Makes Relentless Attack on His Opponent's Head and Body. Review of the Contest at Jersey City.

New York, Sept. 12.—Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine giant, was outpointed and outslugged by Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, in nearly every round of their bout at Jersey City last night.

Under the New Jersey law no decision was permitted, but there was no question as to the victor. Firpo, in the opinion of some critics, barely held his own in one round, the third, while the big majority of newspaper critics gave every round of the 12 to the big negro. The latter dominated the fight from start to finish with an exhibition of ring craft that spiked Firpo's heaviest gun, his famous right.

Wills beat the Argentinian into decisive defeat with a bruising, relentless attack to the head and body. Firpo was knocked down for a count of four in the second round, staggered in several others by lightning-like thrusts to his jaw and subjected to a succession of savage, weakening drives to the body. Shorn of his chief and only potent weapon, the Argentine giant fought a losing battle all the way. His gameness carried him through the punishment his negro rival administered, but he had not the boxing skill, speed or versatility of attack to cope with Wills.

In the opinion of spectators Firpo was not the fighter he had been in his other battles. Shorn of the use of his right arm the Argentine's defense was too crude to avoid the barrage of Wills' blows. The big negro continually held Firpo with his long left arm and wrestled the Argentine about while he administered terrific punishment with short right jolts to the head and body. At close range, Firpo was bewildered and helpless. Several times during the fight Firpo complained of Wills' tactics. His handlers, too, protested, but Referee Sullivan refused to heed them, pointing out that they had agreed to fight in the clinches as long as one hand was free.

PRICE'S SELECTIONS

List of Appointments, Just Announced, Covers Entire Country.

Columbus, Sept. 12.—Grand Exalted Ruler John G. Price of the B. P. O. E., has just completed his list of appointments, some 160 in number, covering the entire country. Among them are appointments in Ohio, as follows: John W. Kaufman, Columbus lodge, secretary to the grand exalted ruler; William H. Reinhardt, Sandusky lodge, member state association committee. District Deputies—James A. Allen, Columbus lodge, Columbus district; P. R. McKay, Findlay lodge, Ohio Northwest district; R. Ford Loomis, Elyria lodge, Ohio North Central district; Blake C. Cook, Kent lodge, Ohio Northeast district; Richard A. Powell, Cincinnati lodge, Ohio Southwest district; William H. Meyers, Zanesville lodge, Ohio Southeast district. Mr. Price has just returned from a trip through the middle west, where he attended a number of Elks' homes and several cornerstone layings. Shortly he will leave for a trip to visit the lodges in the extreme west, including Portland, Ore., where the next Grand lodge meeting will be held.

Attention of all Ohio Elks is directed to Cleveland, where on Oct. 14 the grand exalted ruler will be entertained at what will be perhaps the largest Elks' meeting ever held in the state. It will be under the auspices of the Northeastern district of Ohio.

La Follette Indorsed.

Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 12.—The West Virginia Federation of Labor, in convention here, indorsed the candidacy of Senator Robert M. La Follette for president with but one dissenting vote. The dissenting vote was cast by a delegate who said he personally favored the La Follette movement, but was instructed by his local union to vote against any political indorsement.

VIRGINIA GILDERSLEEVE

President of the Federation of University Women.

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Coal Prices Lower.

Columbus, Sept. 12.—Local coal dealers say that a plentiful supply of coal of the type used in households is available for delivery, and that present prices are from 50 cents to $1.50 a ton less than they were a year ago. In fact, the dealers say, fuel prices are lower now than at any time since the war. Quotations on Hocking Valley coal here are generally fixed at $6 a ton. West Virginia coal ranges generally from $6.25 to $6.50. Pocahontas is quoted by most dealers from $7.75 a ton to $8.

To Care For Retired Ministers.

Coshocton, O., Sept. 12.—An endowment fund of $500,000 is to be raised to care for retired ministers of the Methodist Episcopal church, according to a committee report passed in the Northeast Ohio Methodist Episcopal conference. Ministers are to be assessed a tax of from one-half to 1 per cent of their annual salary for a part of the fund. The remainder of it will come from the churches.

Victim of Tornado.

Sandusky, O., Sept. 12.—The body of an unidentified woman recovered from Lake Erie at Vermilion, following the recovery of an unidentified man a week ago, leads Dr. E. J. Leblanc, coroner of Erie county, to believe that the two were victims of the tornado that swept this section June 28. Both bodies were badly decomposed.

Against State Constabulary.

Springfield, O., Sept. 12.—The state convention of the Ohio Federation of Labor went on record here as being opposed to any legislation in Ohio which would establish a state constabulary. Another resolution advocating legislation which will not permit the sale of bread in Ohio until it has been baked 12 hours was passed.

Succeeds Holycross.

Columbus, Sept. 12.—H. Walter Boyer was selected by county commissioners to act as temporary sheriff, to succeed Frank L. Holycross, whose resignation is effective Oct. 1. Boyer will serve until Jan. 1, 1925, when the position will be filled by a man chosen at the November election. He is a Republican.

Dry Candidates to Speak.

Columbus, Sept. 12.—H. P. Farris of Missouri, presidential candidate of the Prohibition party, and Miss Marie C. Brehm of Long Beach, Cal., vice presidential candidate, will speak at the Ohio rally of their party, which will be held in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium here Sept. 26.

Auto Overturns.

Newark, O., Sept. 12.—Mrs. Ethel Clark, 35, was drowned and Henry Klingner, 55, was injured seriously when the automobile in which they were riding from Somerset to Thornport overturned. Both resided in Thornport.

Crossing Accident.

Toledo, Sept. 12.—Bernard Vance, 25, was killed; Miss Dana Everetts, 18, probably fatally injured, and two other persons hurt when a Lake Shore interurban limited car crashed into their automobile five miles east of here.

A Belfast dispatch states that the entire $35,000,000 of gold bullion has been recovered from the sunken wreck of the liner Laurentic, which was torpedoed by a German submarine in war time.

MILLIONS TAKE PART IN TEST

Parades and Meetings Feature Defense Day.

OCCASION DULY OBSERVED

War Department Officials Estimate That More Than Fifty Million Persons Will Be Brought Into Contact With the Nation's Defense Problem Through the Test—Half to Be Reached by Radio Tonight.

Washington, Sept. 12.—War department officials estimated that more than 50,000,000 persons will be brought directly into contact with the country's defense problem through the Defense day test today and this evening.

Half of this number, or 25,000,000, are expected to participate directly or indirectly in the local gatherings of citizen troops and the patriotic exercises scheduled to follow them in nearly every city and hamlet in the country. The other half will be reached by General Pershing and Secretary of War Weeks over the radio. The same radio-casting system set up for distribution of President Coolidge's acceptance speech has been provided to carry the last official words of the nation's war leader to the people before Pershing's retirement at midnight.

Corps area commanders reported to the department that arrangements for the test have been perfected. In large cities great parades and open-air meetings are expected to draw thousands. Many smaller cities and towns made the test a community festival.

Columbus, Sept. 12.—Observance of Defense day here will be featured by a parade and patriotic exercises at the north entrance to the state house grounds tonight. Military and civic organizations will participate in the parade. The program will include invocation by Rev. S. S. Palmer of Broad Street Presbyterian church, an address by former Governor Campbell, and benediction by Rev. Father T. J. O'Reilly.

COURT TEST IS NEXT STEP, OFFICIALS SAY

Authority of Railroad Labor Board Challenged.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Officials of the railway labor board declared that a court test to thoroughly interpret the law and right of the board to compel unwilling witnesses to testify, under the transportation act, would be the next step in the controversy over wages and rules between the western railway managers and the engine service brotherhoods.

When two rail brotherhood chiefs failed to appear, counsel for the brotherhoods presented identical letters from each. Attached to them was a copy of the protest and refusal to recognize the jurisdiction of the board, which they termed a "biased tribunal." Chairman Ben W. Hooper then asked representatives of the western managers if they had any further evidence to present and they replied that they would stand on the evidence already in. The case then was taken under advisement and the board adjourned.

Dawes Attacks La Follette.

Milwaukee, Sept. 12.—In his speech here last night Charles G. Dawes, Republican candidate for vice president, denounced the La Follette independent candidacy as the "quintessence of demagoguery," charging that the purpose was the "undermining of the constitutional foundation of this country." He described Senator La Follette as "the master demagogue," warned against any party attempting to take a position in the half-way ground between "those who favor the constitution of the United States and those who would destroy its essential parts," and declared this division to be the greatest issue of the campaign.

Kills Small Brother.

Sidney, O., Sept. 12.—Warren Elsass, 3, son of John Elsass of Botkins, near here, died from injuries received when his 6-year-old brother shot him with a gun. The father of the two boys had been cleaning the gun and left the room for a moment. The charge landed in the lad's chest.

INJUNCTION SOUGHT

Texas Attorney Would Debar "Ma" Ferguson From Holding Office.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 12.—Charles M. Dickson, an attorney of San Antonio, filed an injunction to prevent Mrs. Miriam Ferguson from becoming chief executive of the state. The petition declares that James E. Ferguson, debarred from holding office, is the real candidate for governor of Texas in the name of his wife, "Ma" Ferguson. The suit is directed against the county judge, the county clerk and the sheriff of every county in Texas, and seeks to prevent Mrs. Ferguson's name going on the ballot. Another proposition presented by the petition is that under a law, which was adopted in Texas in 1840, a woman, especially a married woman, was ineligible to hold any executive or judicial office, and that no such right has been conferred by statute or the constitution.

Davis Refers to Oil Leases.

Denver, Sept. 12.—"Honesty in government" was the subject of the speech here of John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for president, who asked his hearers to hold the Republican party "to the accounting which is its due," on its record in the administration of government. He made reference to the leasing of the naval oil reserves and the handling of the reclamation problem, and said that "unless political parties can be held to strict account, party government itself is a base imposition and a fraud." Mr. Davis accused the Republican party of having broken most of the promises made to the American people four years ago.

CHARGED WITH PERJURY

One of Defendants in Narcotic Case Placed Under Arrest.

Toledo, Sept. 12.—Oscar C. Pettiford, one of the defendants in the Mount Victory narcotic cases, in which the government is seeking to prove a conspiracy to transport drugs illegally, was arrested on a charge of perjury. Pettiford, it is charged, had stated in the marshal's office here, in the presence of government officials, that Earl Tapp, one of the defendants in the present trial, had threatened Calvin Trapkey, the main government witness, with a gun, at the Pettiford home some months ago. Trapkey had already testified Tapp had threatened to kill him if he "squealed" on his companions. Pettiford, on the witness stand, denied that Tapp had a gun or had threatened Trapkey.

Oldest Active Banker Dead.

McArthur, O., Sept. 12.—Daniel Will, 93, oldest active banker in Ohio, died in his private rooms in the Vinton County National bank here. He had spent the day attending to his banking business, as usual, and had retired to his rooms to read, as was his lifelong habit. Later the bank watchman found him dead in his chair, the end having come suddenly.

Woman Expires in Jail.

Middleport, O., Sept. 12.—While joking with fellow prisoners in the county jail, Mrs. Frank Neutzing, 45, was stricken with apoplexy and died. She was incarcerated for using liquor and narcotics, officers say.

That Ought to Deter Her

A woman who frequently went out to spend the day with friends had been accompanied by her six-year-old son. One evening, on returning home very much bored with the day's experience, the boy remarked: "Mother, if you don't stop taking me around with you so much people will think you have married a dwarf."—Boston Transcript.

Heavenly Music

If yo' take the band in the United States an' place it 'longside de heavenly quah, it would sound lak de squeak of a mouse beside de mighty roar ob Nlagarer."—Boston Transcript.

"Rime" and "Rhyme"

"Rime" is now the generally preferred spelling of this word. The spelling "rhyme" does not seem to have occurred until about the middle of the sixteenth century. It probably arose from the false analogy between "rime" and "rhythm." The tendency now is to return to the original and correct form of the word—"rime."—The Pathfinder.

Swans Not Songsters

Swans have been favorites of people since ancient times. Greeks called them the birds of Apollo. There are two fine species of swans in America—the Trumpeter and the Whistler. They build their nests along the shores of lakes and on islands, from the Dakotas north to the Arctic regions. People used to believe that a swan sang but once, and that was when it was dying. This is not true. The swans are great trumpeters, but they never sing.

Tongue Troubles

Betty is a great talker. It was often said of her tongue that it was loose at both ends and it wagged in the middle. But when she ate she quite often bit her tongue. One evening at supper she bit her tongue and then burned it on something hot. After a few tears and a little sympathy she remarked: "I guess I'll take my tongue out when I eat and put it back when I talk."

Would Be Clumsy

We wear away quite two inches of shoe leather in a year. A pair of boots that would "last a lifetime" would, consequently, have to be provided with soles from eight to nine feet thick.

ARE NOT AGREED ON ORIGIN OF HOOSIER

Some Opinions Put Forward Not Complimentary.

What the term "Hoosier" means, and the origin of it, is a question that persists through the years. More than ninety years ago it was discussed in the newspapers, and though the reasonable and probable answer was then indicated, which the Indiana Democrat of October 26, 1833, copied from the Cincinnati Republican, an improbable explanation that chanced to get a footing is nearly always given in answer. It is that the nickname rose from what was said to be the habit of Indiana pioneers of hailing a cabin with the call "Who's vere?" No authentic pioneer chronicles tell of any such expression.

A common hail was: "Hello the house!" in Indiana and elsewhere. More worthy of credence is the notion of James Whitcomb Riley, who maintained that Hoosier evolved from the characteristic scrappiness of the pioneers who in settling their differences bit off each other's features. When, after one of these pleasantries, a belated citizen arrived on the scene and saw a detached ear lying on the ground he naturally asked: "Who's ear?" Other stories than these derived the word from huzzar, huzza and husher. None of them merits serious consideration. Another story not quite so unlikely is that when the canal was being dug a contractor by the name of Hoosier employed workmen from the Indiana side of the river. These became known as Hoosier's men, and as there were a great many of them, the use of the name spread until it became associated with Indianians generally.

The discussion of 1833, referred to above as quoted from the Cincinnati Republican, had this to say: "The word Hoosier is indebted for its existence to that once numerous but now extinct class of mortals called the Ohio boatmen. In its original acceptance it was equivalent to 'Rip-staver,' 'Scrouger,' 'Screamer,' 'Bulger,' 'Ringtail roarer,' and a hundred others. By some caprice the appellation became confined solely to such boatmen as had their homes upon the Indiana shore, and from them it was gradually applied to all the Indianians."

The writer of this perhaps did not know that the word was not confined to the boatmen on the river, but extended southward and was probably common then, as it certainly was later in the more primitive sections, especially in the mountain districts. Today one may find the word Hoosier there as an expression of contempt for an uncouth and unkempt person. That it made its way northward as part of the southern vocabulary along with the tide of immigration from the South hardly admits of a doubt, and that it attached to the typical early Indianian is an uncomplimentary probability. As the cultural status of the people changed the word gradually lost its earlier implications but retained its place. The first appearance of the word in print, as far as known, is in the Indiana Palladium for July 30, 1831, which, describing Noah Noble as a horse in the political race, says: "He may be called a 'Hoosier.'"—Indianapolis News.

Made Students Laugh

A description of how football is played in America provoked mirth in an assembly of Danish students, according to a letter received at Columbia university from John Dyneley Prince, American minister to Denmark. He lectured to the Copenhagen University Students' association on "Student Life in America."

"I went into the subject of hazing," says Professor Prince, "and gave them a view of some freshmen newly painted, and I also endeavored to describe a cane rush, for which there is of course, no expression in Danish. All this caused much laughter, and one of the professors expressed the hope that it might not set a bad example! "Of football, as we play it, they know nothing, so I showed some illustrations and gave a brief lecture on our methods. They asked whether we did not have to have a field hospital and stretcher bearers, and on my reply, 'Of course,' the whole hall went into spasms of laughter."

Solid Bridges

In building highways through the mountainous regions of Colorado a queer bridge is being used in spanning the arroyos—the dry creeks that carry water only after rains, which often overflow on short notice. The ordinary type of concrete-and-steel bridge poorly withstands these floods. To do away with this the highway engineers, instead of bridging the creek in the usual way, are building a solid base of concrete to the bottom of the arroyo and laying the grade on top of it. Culverts are built through the concrete of a sufficient capacity to carry off ordinary drainage.

At flood periods the water, as it rages down the arroyos and meets one of these concrete walls, simply goes over the top of it, the solid concrete base offering so firm a resistance that the risk of its being carried away is hardly to be considered. After the flood has subsided the debris is cleared off the bridge and the crossing is as good as ever.

WHEN YOU KNOW A MAN

IT WAS Charles Lamb, I believe, who was responsible for the statement that you can't hate a man when you know him. Whether or not the experience of people in general will bear out this view, I cannot say. I do know, however, that a superficial acquaintance with people tends to confirm one in pessimism; most of us seem to have our worst qualities on the surface.

It is curious how few men we really do know. Those whom we meet daily at our places of business or in our households are often strange to us. Fathers and sons, mothers and daughters, husbands and wives even have little real knowledge of each other's thoughts and characters, and the people with whom we associate every day are often as strangers to us. Even our own brothers we often misunderstand or have little sympathy for.

It is only when we get at the heart of a man that we recognize his real worth. I have wondered sometimes if we could get into more intimate acquaintance with our pet enemies or with the devil even if we should not find them less black than they have been painted.

I really ought to be a pessimist, for I have seen the worst sort of men, and so many men at their worst. On the contrary, however, as time goes on my faith in human beings strengthens. Even the worst of men whom I have known have revealed so many good qualities when I have really got at them that I could not admit that anyone was wholly bad. The evil which had come to the surface, and which had attracted attention, was only incidental in most cases and the good after all predominated.

At times when I get to the point of admitting that no one keeps faith, no one is virtuous, no one honest, something is sure to happen that draws me back to a safe harbor of hope and faith and anchors me fast again.

Every day I get new insights into human character. Fellows whom I had supposed I knew through and through show traits that I had never suspected, strong qualities which through all the years of our association had been entirely concealed.

I am coming more and more to believe that Lamb was right, and that if we could bring ourselves really to know a man, we should find in him so much to respect, so much to admire, so much to wonder at that we could not bring ourselves to hate him—not even to dislike him.

I haven't a doubt but that old Martin down the street, whom I have always looked upon as the most despicable of men, has virtues that would shine, qualities that are really lovable if I could only know him fully.

Kipling's Verse Made Substitute for Bible

The American army of occupation in the Philippines used to have a song—Forbidden by Washington—in which one of the noisiest lines was "Civilize them with the Krag," says London Answers. All that is new ancient history, and the civilization of the Moros has long been aided by the Bible and the graphophone. It will soon be the Bible and radio.

One of the famous exponents of the Krag form of civilization, Colonel Cloman, died recently and has left behind a book of memoirs published under the title of "Myself and a Few Moros." It is a "he man's book."

Among other things it tells of the colonel's visit to the sultana of Sulu in the absence of her lord the sultan. The colonel had to present his government's compliments, and a graphophone that not merely played records, but made them. He was accompanied by the high priest of Sulu, who acted as chaperon. The graphophone made a great sensation, which culminated when the priest recited into it the first chapter of the Koran, and the witch instrument repeated tone for tone what the old man had said.

Not to be outdone in courtesy, the sultana thereupon insisted that the colonel should recite into the instrument the first chapter of his Koran, the Bible, so that she might play it over for the consolation of future guests from the land beyond the waters.

The colonel was stumped for a moment. He revered his Bible at a distance. Yet he dared not hesitate. The only thing he could recall was one of Kipling's ballads, and this he intoned with all solemnity, rolling out the lines: "I've taken my fun where I've found it; I've rogued an' I've ranged in my time."

The colonel said the sultana was impressed, but he wondered ever since what the first missionary who came along said when the sultana let loose the graphophone to show how familiar she was with the religion of the Americans.

Sets Colors Permanently

To set the color in any cotton material, add a handful of salt and two tablespoonfuls of turpentine to three-quarters of a pail of hot water. Put goods in and allow to remain until water is cold. This should set the colors permanently so that neither sun nor washing will fade them afterward.—Washington Star.

Ensemble Outfit Favored in Paris

Autumn Openings Indicate This Type of Costume Will Remain.

The ensemble idea has attracted a strong and prominent following in Paris, observes a fashion writer in the New York Herald-Tribune. Reports of the autumn openings indicate that this type of costume has been accorded an important position in the new collections. The basic theme of dress and coat combinations is the development of the former in pastel shades of lace and georgette crepe, to be accompanied by cover coats of broadcloth in a matching shade. The costume, consisting of a plaited tunic dress of pale pink georgette having side panels, a yoke and a hem border of lace, all dyed in an exactly matching tone, is a popular mode. The slim cover coat of pink broadcloth has plaited motifs of crepe georgette ornamenting the collar and sleeves.

The outstanding feature of another winsome coat is the novelty pink plaid wool from which it is developed. Plaids, too, may be safely counted upon to make their reappearance for fall and winter, particularly for sports wear, in which phase of apparel they are traditionally appropriate. The cut and size of the panel pockets on the model are unusual and striking. They extend from the hip line to the bottom of the coat—at least the panel does. The pocket itself is fairly small in comparison, as it is only a part of the panel. The large, turnover collar and the cuff bands are of squirrel. The notable feature in the straight coats is the absence of the once much-worn band trimming at the bottom of the coat. Pockets, cording, inserts and applications about the hips are now the favorite decoration. Occasionally a simple, well proportioned crepe de chine dress unbuttons to reveal a chiffon dress perhaps of color, perhaps of figured material, and as often a combination of both, and thus becomes another variation of the long, straight silk coat.

An unusually smart coat is a dressy afternoon model and is cut quite straight in both front and back. On the skirt portion at a low waistline are placed two slightly circular flounces which are mounted in a sort of semi-circular outline. The ends of each flounce tie at the left side in butterfly effect and the cuff bands tie in the same manner. The coat is formed of the crepe side of the material while the flounces and cuff bands reveal the satin surface. A striking standing collar is developed in ermine.

Bobbed Bandette Latest for Out-of-Doors Wear

Designers are using ingenuity in creating trappings for the bobbed coiffure for formal occasions. The problem is quickly solved sometimes with wigs. Slender fillets of metal and jewels, bands of silk or metallized ribbon, and half wreaths of flowers or leaves may be worn and fit snugly over the short hair. The latest thing is the bobbed bandette, a bandage of silk, gauze or satin, hand painted or embroidered, that covers the head so well as to appear almost like a turban. It is intended especially for out-of-doors wear, for tennis, motor-ing, or any sports occasion. The bandettes are made of many lovely materials and in the prettiest color combinations.

Sleeveless Coats

Some women of fashion have tired of the regulation sweater and have adopted little sleeveless coats that are showy and smart for country wear and snappy and effective with white sports dress. Some are cut after the manner of waistcoats; they are bound with braid and trimmed with buttons and have small pockets. Most of them are in vivid green, scarlet, Havana brown or tan. Whatever particular type of sweater is chosen, the voyager will find need for an assortment.

A Treasure of the Earth.
"It matters not on what plane of life one labors, nor how large or small the number of his acquaintances, the man who toils, and yet knows that in the circle of his influence there is at least one life in which there is sunshine where, but for him, there would have been shadow; that there is at least one home in which there is cheer where, but for him, there would have been gloom; that there is at least one heart in which there is hope where, but for him, there would have been despair—that man carries with him, as he goes, one of the richest treasures on this earth."

Famous English Lotteries.
It brought a shock to many Londoners when somebody informed them that Westminster bridge was built from the proceeds of a lottery. Then somebody dug up the fact that away back in 1730 parliament incorporated a lottery through which the beginnings were made toward establishing the British museum.

HERRICK REFRIGERATORS

The Big Difference In Refrigerators

The main object of any refrigerator, of course, is the preservation of foods. The refrigerator that will keep foods in perfect condition longest is naturally the refrigerator you want—provided it doesn't increase your ice bills.

The Herrick answers those requirements with facts—not claims. And it does even more. It actually decreases your ice bills while giving you more effective food preservation.

And why? Simply because the Herrick is far more than an ice box—far more than a cold storage place. It is built on the scientifically demonstrated principle that more than merely cold air is necessary to keep foods in good condition for any great length of time.

Perhaps the biggest essentials to scientifically correct refrigeration are—

- No. 1. Circulation of cold dry air.
- No. 2. Effective insulation.
- No. 3. Air-tight construction.

That the Herrick has these necessary essentials is a demonstrated fact.

Many proofs of the truth are visible even to the least informed purchaser. Others are hidden within the walls of the refrigerator, but nevertheless there, performing their functions so important to good health and economy.

WHITE ENTERS RACE

Will Run For Governor of Kansas on an Anti-Klan Platform.

Emporia, Kan., Sept. 12.—The Ku Klux Klan in Kansas politics caused William Allen White, Emporia editor, to enter the field as an independent Republican candidate for governor of Kansas, opposed to the Klan. White sent out nominating petitions bearing his name and that of Carr W. Taylor of Hutchinson for governor and Lieutenant governor. Explaining that it "made no difference to him what happened," White said the petitions should show whether there was any real sentiment in Kansas for candidates opposed to the Klan.

Two Rum Runners Die.

New York, Sept. 12.—Two bootleggers leaped to death during a thrilling chase in the lower harbor when the fastest rum running craft yet encountered by police was rammed and sunk. Scores of shots were fired during the chase. The rum boat, the Sagitta, was a converted steel submarine chaser worth $75,000. Two hundred and fifty cases of whiskey were aboard.

Phone Rates Boosted.

Columbus, Sept. 12.—New rates established by the Ohio Bell Telephone company for Franklin county villages were filed with the state utilities commission. The increases in the proposed new rates range from 10 to 100 per cent and are to become effective Oct. 1.

Attorney Slain.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 12.—Paul M. O'Day, young attorney, was instantly killed as he entered a bank building here. Four shots were fired from a shotgun. William Lester Crawford, another prominent attorney, was arrested. "He insulted my mother," was the only statement made by Crawford, according to the police.

To Fight Fire In Mine.

Bellaire, O., Sept. 12.—The Ohio mine rescue car "Black Diamond" arrived here from Columbus to fight the fire raging in Lincoln mine, owned by the Lorain Coal and Dock company of Columbus. The flames have gained headway since breaking out Aug. 22, when the mine was sealed in hope of smothering the blaze.

Smoke and Sunlight

Recent tests in Paris with an instrument that measures accurately the amount of sunlight received from moment to moment have shown that when the smoke of the city blows over the place of observation the intensity of the sunlight is cut down more than 25 per cent below its value when the wind blows the smoke in the other direction. Sunlight is so valuable to health that this is a matter of considerable importance to city communities. It is another argument, possibly the best one, for careful attention to smoke prevention.

Call for War on Rat

Seldom do people realize the danger of the rat as being the destroyer of food and property and spreader of disease. Certain it is they must eat to live and they are very vicious when unable to obtain food.

Although during the winter months, due no doubt to the fact that the severe weather drives hungry rats into the homes, the spring is usually the worst time for these pests. They sometimes attack children and even grownups. Rats can and should be killed by all citizens co-operating in the necessary work of extermination.

FOOTBALL

First Game of Season Will be Played Next Sunday on Mason's Field.

Football is now coming to the place where it is considered the great American game, that is it attracts a following superior in numbers to any other sport patronized by the great sport loving public of the United States.

Circleville, along with the other cities of this land has its full quota of football fans who delight in this fine outdoor game. We have for a number of years had very successful teams representing our high school and on a number of occasions Independent teams have been put in the field in this community, and they have been well supported by our people.

Circleville Aerle of Eagles, which is ever ready to help advance the community in any way, has been for the past few years breaking into the athletic game, not from a money making standpoint, but to try and afford our town and surrounding territory with high class sport. They canvassed the situation and came to the conclusion that Circleville should this year be represented by the best football team that can be assembled in this territory and at a recent meeting went behind the project and perfected an organization.

A call was sent out for players and a squad of more than twenty responded and it is expected to add to this original squad in the next week or so. Every player who reports will be given an opportunity to show his ability and it is the intention of the management to carry a squad of from twenty to twenty-five thru the season.

A contract has been made with W. H. Mason for his playing field and the ground will be laid out and the playing field fenced off in time for the first game which will be played this coming Sunday afternoon.

The first game of the season will be with Rosenfeld's Accessories, of Columbus, a team which played last season under the name of East Columbus Bull Dogs. This game will be free to all ladies and it is hoped that a large number of the fair sex will be out to inspire the boys to win their first contest.

Letters have been received by the manager from a number of teams looking for Circleville dates, among others Chillicothe and Murray City Tigers, and if the team receives the proper encouragement at the beginning of the season a number of the best teams in central Ohio will be seen on the local gridiron during the coming season.

Until further notice all games will be called at 2:45 o'clock and every possible effort will be made to have the contests start on time.

Go out Sunday afternoon and look the boys over and if you like the prospects for football this season get the habit and come out every Sunday.

SEVEN PERISH

Fire Destroys Farm Home, Six Girls Being Among Victims.

Dickinson, Ind., Sept. 12.—Fire claimed a toll of seven lives here. The six daughters of Louis Splichal and Bergin Roller, 69, father of Mrs. Splichal, were burned to death when fire destroyed their farm home, 16 miles southwest of here. Mr. and Mrs. Splichal escaped with an infant daughter. The flames started from a defective flue. The six girls burned ranged in age from 3 to 14 years. They were sleeping in another room of the home. After the father got his wife and baby out he was unable to reach the other children because of a wall of fire.

Perfume in White Flowers.

Of 6,000 species of cultivated flowers in Europe, 3,880 are stated to have an offensive odor, 2,300 have no perceptible smell, and only 420 emit a pleasing fragrance. The most numerous of the perfumed kinds are those having white or cream-colored flowers. These are followed in order by those with yellow, red, blue and violet flowers, only 13 out of 308 of the last named having been found to possess an odor at all agreeable.

EXECUTOR'S SALE.

The undersigned executor of the estate of Pauline Schwarz deceased, will on Saturday afternoon, September 20, 1924, at one o'clock Central Standard time at the late residence of said decedent at 214 North Pickaway street, Circleville, Ohio, offer for sale at public auction for cash, the household goods, furniture, house furnishings, beds, bedding, carpets, chairs, tables, Moore's Airtight coal heating stove, gas range, table linen and tableware, canned fruit and numerous other articles.

On October 6, 1924, at 1:30 o'clock p. m. Standard time, at the front door of the court house in Circleville, Ohio, said executor will offer for sale at public auction the residence property of said decedent.

BUSINESS IS BUSINESS

Is Prevailing Slogan, Sociologist Finds—Few Buy at Home Just for Loyalty.

The slogan, "Boost Your Home Town," apparently has few adherents when dollars and cents are concerned. So an investigator from the department of sociology at the Ohio State university found by spending three months in a typically rural county in Ohio to get material for a recently published bulletin on town-country relationships.

Farmers and villagers may be economically interdependent, says this investigator, Perry P. Denune, instructor in sociology at the State university but few of them conduct their business that way. "Friendship is all right in its place, but business is business," seems to be the slogan.

"Only three farmers during the whole study," the sociologist reports, "said they did their buying locally because of loyalty. They gave at least six reasons for buying groceries from their local community stores: Personal whims, kinship with the grocers, friendship, convenience, credit and price. Similarly, 75 per cent of all the farmers interviewed and many of the townspeople went outside of the county for a part of their clothing.

"The small town merchants neither cooperate among themselves nor with the farmer. Sympathy is often expressed concerning the farmer's economic hardships, but no effort is made to help him. The farmers likewise speak of their town, associate with the merchants on various occasions, but go often to other towns or send to mail order houses for many of their necessities.

"The only tendency away from this individualistic attitude," Mr. Denune reports, "is seen in the development of certain cooperative enterprises among the farmers."

THE POSSIBLE DEADLOCK.

If Senator LaFollette secures anything like the number of electoral votes which the Democratic national chairman conceded to him last week or even the smaller number which the Republicans obviously fear he may get, the likelihood of the presidential election being thrown into the house will be strong. In both the electoral college and the house, a majority is necessary. But in the house it is a majority of the states that is required, each having one vote. The right to cast that vote lies with its representatives in the house, the party having the majority of the representation prevailing. How stands it then in the present house of representatives, which, under the constitution, would have the duty of electing a president next February, in case the voting in November did not give any candidate a majority in the electoral college?

As there are 48 states, the party able to place its nominee in the presidency would have to be in command of 25 states. But the disturbing element in the case is that five states, Maryland, New Jersey, New Hampshire, Nebraska and Montana, have a delegation in congress equally divided between the Republicans and the Democrats. They would, therefore, not be able to cast a vote at all, thus making it by so much the harder for either party to obtain the necessary 25 states. Counting out the five states that are tied, the Republicans have a majority of the representatives in 22 of the remaining 43, and the Democrats in 21. On a test vote it is probable that at least one nominally Republican state, Wisconsin, would not vote for the Republican candidate. He might also lose under the prompting of Senator LaFollette, Minnesota and North Dakota. Even if the Republicans held all three they might still be two short of the needed 25. And where the Democrats could get the additional four that they require does not appear.

Thus the probability of at least a prolonged deadlock in the house, and the possibility of a failure of the house to elect any president at all, are made plain by this mere statement of the facts.

Many ingenious speculations regarding different ways in which the problem might be solved, if it arises, are current. It is needless now to enumerate or weigh them. Most of them are wholly inconclusive. The hope of sensible citizens will be that one candidate or another will receive a majority in the electoral college, so as to avert an anxious time of uncertainty after the November election and to prevent a severe strain upon our constitutional procedure. But if the result is otherwise, we should still have to count upon the wisdom and self-sacrifice of congress to prevent a complete breakdown, to maintain in its best sense government by party, and to keep our government a going concern.—New York Times.

DANCING

Birds of Asia Move West.

The birds and animals of Asia are constantly moving westward into Europe, according to German naturalists, the Ural mountains apparently marking an insufficient difference in climate and general conditions to keep the wild life of the two continents separate. Says the Detroit News. The Ural owl has lately been seen at the Brandenburg gate of Berlin, and even as far west as the Neckar valley, and German ornithologists say he has come to stay. This great bird, whose wing spread sometimes exceeds a meter, formerly lived chiefly in Siberia.

Flowers as Timekeepers.

The dandelions open in the morning and close in the evening at the same time every day. The hawk weed and goat's beard are quite as regular. If the right subjects were planted it would, no doubt, be possible to have a bed of flowers that would tell the exact hour of the day from sunrise to sunset.

AMUSEMENTS

"Fair Week," a new Paramount picture starring Walter Hiers, opened at the Met theater yesterday. It's a story of a big man in a small town. There's love interest, a villain and all that sort of thing. But it's not just another comedy. Far from it. And guess who plays opposite the star? Constance Wilson, Lois' sister. Carmen Phillips is in the cast too, and so are J. Farrell MacDonald, little Mary Jane Irving and a host of others.

You'll get the thrill of a lifetime from the balloon episode at the Tri-County fair, which annually brings the little town of Rome, Missouri, out of its drowse with a bang and generally finds it weeks afterward trying to recuperate, with the sheriff, mayor and a few others still hunting around for their watches and other trifles. But this time they make arrangements to cope with these slick carnival fellows and Hiers is appointed one of the seventeen deputy sheriffs. But that's where the fun begins. Better be in on it.

POLICE COURT.

Ernest Walker and Arthur Spencer, sojourners from Columbus, got on a jag Thursday evening in this city, and were gathered in by the police. In police court this morning Mayor Fitzpatrick handed each a fine of $10 and costs. Being unable to pay they were handed over to Serviceman Schneider, who is employing them screening gravel in the gravel pit.

THE LITTLE SHEPHERD

OF KINGDOM COME.

"The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" has been produced with a marvelous exactitude to the lines of the book of the same name, generally acclaimed John Fox Jr.'s masterpiece. The primitive instincts, the mountain feuds, their quaint vernacular, and high sense of honor are powerfully portrayed and thru all runs a clear strain of sentiment and love made beautiful in its own simplicity. The cast has been chosen with the utmost care. At the Lyceum theater, Columbus, the week of September 14. Daily matinee.

AGED BANKER DEAD.

Dan Will aged 92, financier, president of the Vinton county National bank, was found dead in the bank at McArthur Thursday evening by the night watchman. Death was due to heart failure. Mr. Will was reputed to be the wealthiest man in Vinton county. He was a bachelor. Even at his advanced age he stood behind the cashier's counter and waited on customers. He was related to the family of the late Mrs. Charles Will and come of New England stock.

Oil From Fish Jawbone.

The rare oil used for cleaning watches comes from a cavity in the jawbone of the porpoise or blackfish. Cape Cod fishermen supply the greater part of it. The oil is taken up into Vermont to be tested, because there the mercury in the thermometer goes far below the zero mark in winter. A single drop of this oil is enough to lubricate a watch for a year, the best grade of it being that which remains virtually unchanged at the lowest temperature.

SWEET CLOVER

Once Despised "Weed" in Front Rank as Soil Improver.

Sweet clover, unlike goldenrod, is no longer a weed to be sneezed at. Nearly twice as many Ohio farmers grow it now as did a year ago. It was only five or six years ago that most people considered sweet clover a noxious weed.

Soils specialists at the Ohio State university submit this as proof that increased interest in sweet clover as a soil-improver in Ohio is not mythical. During the past month more than 20 western Ohio counties have been conducting sweet clover field days, or towns in which growers looked over the outstanding sweet clover fields and demonstration plots in the county.

Forty-one per cent of the growers utilize the crop for pasture, 28 per cent for hay, 24 per cent for green manure and 7 per cent for seed. It is seeded with a hand sower on 54 per cent of the farms, with a grain drill on 41 per cent and with an alfalfa drill on 5 per cent. Oats is the favorite companion crop, with wheat a close second.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

The marriage of Miss Anna Carle formerly of this city and Mr. Albert Heckinger, of Chillicothe, took place at St. Peter's church Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock with Rev. F. J. Kreuzkamp performing the ceremony and celebrating the nuptial mass. To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march the bridal party entered the church and during the ceremony the school children's choir sang softly. The bride wore a navy blue canton crepe with hat to match and carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Katherine Sulzer wore a brown satin crepe with gloves and hat to match and wore a corsage of bride's roses. The groom's best man was Frank Carle, a brother of the bride. After the ceremony a breakfast was served to the immediate families at the bride's home.

Mrs. Heckinger is the daughter of Mr. William Carle, of this city, but for the past year made her home with her aunt, Mrs. Sophie Reider, of East Main street. Mr. Heckinger is the son of Mrs. John Heckinger and is employed as a mechanic at Bierley's garage. The couple will make their home with the groom's mother at 342 South Paint street. Those who attended the wedding from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Carle and Mr. and Mrs. George Carle of near Circleville.—News-Advertiser, Chillicothe.

Mrs. Frank J. Bennett entertained Thursday in honor of Mrs. Hildeburne Jones, of Albany, New York and Mrs. Harold Clarke, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Misses Abbe and Grace Clarke entertained with a luncheon Wednesday in honor of Mrs. Harold Clarke, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

TO SWEEP OHIO

Federal Council of Churches to Direct Campaign.

Ohio is on the eve of a great evangelistic campaign. The nation wide cooperative church attendance and evangelistic campaign, to be launched October 5, by a group of denominations under leadership of the Federal Council of Churches is expected to receive hearty support in this state, according to the Ohio Council of Churches.

Assignment of Bishop Theodore S. Henderson of the M. E. church to Ohio as resident bishop of the Cincinnati area has given a strong impetus to organized evangelistic work in Ohio, as he is one of the country's most prominent evangelistic leaders.

Speaking at the West Ohio conference at Ada last week, Bishop Henderson appealed for activity of the churches in evangelism. He is expected to carry the same message to Methodist county conferences which he plans to hold thruout the state, and to stress the importance of cooperation among the denominations in evangelism.

An entire half-day at the Ohio pastors' convention in January will be devoted to evangelism. Following addresses by Bishop Henderson and Rev. Guy Black, noted as an organizer of cooperative evangelistic campaigns which have brought successful results in a number of cities, opportunity will be given for extended discussion.

Recommendations of the evangelistic commission of the Ohio Council of Churches in regard to a state wide evangelistic program, submitted at last year's annual meeting of the council, will be amplified and brought into harmony with the nation-wide program at this year's annual meeting to be held October 13 and 14.

Experimental work in with evangelistic campaigns based on thorough house-to-house canvasses of communities and neighborhoods, followed by personal work to enlist the support of "non-church" households and individuals, is considered by leaders in the evangelistic field to prove the value of this plan of work. The evangelistic commission of the Council of Churches, in its report last year urged organization of county and community evangelistic programs on that basis.

OPEN SEASON FOR SQUIRRELS.

The squirrel season will open on Monday, September 15, and will close October 20, both dates inclusive. A limit of five squirrels in one day is prescribed by law. The sale of squirrels within or without the state, is prohibited. County Clerk Adrian Yates and deputies have issued so far 150 hunters licenses.

THIRD DIVISION TAKE NOTICE.

The third division will meet at the Methodist Episcopal church this evening at 7:30, to organize and get ready for work. Everyone come.

Removing Tea Stains.

PRESTON W. LUPHER

Elected New President of the Logan Gas Company.

At a meeting of the directors of the Logan Gas Co., Thursday, at the company's office, 258 East Gay street, Columbus, Preston W. Luper, was elected president of the gas company and the Preston Oil Co., succeeding Eugene Pitt Whitcomb, deceased.

Mr. Luper has been vice president and general manager of these organizations since their inception and his selection as president is regarded as a deserved recognition of his long years of most arduous service in their up-building.

Mr. Luper lives with his family at 46 North Parkview avenue, Bexley, is a member of the Columbus chamber of commerce and has always interested himself in and aided in the city's development during his years of residence in Columbus.

He was born in Venango county, Pennsylvania, in 1856. As a boy of 14 in 1870, he began working on oil wells as a pumpjack. With his brother, the late Cyrus Luper, he drilled his first well in Clarion county, Pennsylvania, in 1877 and later began operations in Bradford, Pennsylvania, and Richburg, New York. In 1897 he came to Ohio and promoted The Logan Natural Gas and Fuel company, which later became The Logan Gas company, which was named for him. His entire life has been devoted to the development of oil and gas properties, being one of the real pioneers in these industries in the Appalachian region. After more than fifty years of service he is indeed a veteran and one of the best known men in the industry.

DEFENSE DAY PROGRAM.

Since the Fifth Corps Area commander failed to secure a Defense Day committee to arrange a program for Pickaway county it has been suggested that the Medical Detachment give a First Aid demonstration at the armory at 7:30 p. m., to which the public is invited.

Your presence will indicate a spirit of patriotism. Show your willingness and come and cooperate in our emergency and encourage the work of the local units.

The Ultramicroscope.

There is an instrument called the ultramicroscope which makes visible bodies which are much smaller than can be seen with the microscope. It does this not by magnification but by very bright illumination. The bodies are seen only as bright specks. It is claimed that some of the largest molecules can be seen separately by this method. These molecules contain a large number of atoms, a hundred or so. From the motions of these ultramicroscopic particles their masses can be estimated.

Forged Certificates.

The forging of Uruguayan naturalization certificates, to enable Europeans to enter the United States as Uruguayans, has been disclosed. The Uruguayan law requires a residence of five years before citizenship papers are granted an immigrant. Certificates were obtained in great numbers by false declarations of witnesses who apparently were members of a strong organization which has ramifications in Argentina and Brazil.

The Peninsular War.
The name peninsular is given to the war waged in Spain and Portugal in 1807-1814, between the armies of Napoleon I and the English and Spanish forces under the command of Sir Arthur Wellesley (afterward duke of Wellington). The war grew out of an attempt on the part of Napoleon to partition Portugal, and place his brother Joseph on the throne of Spain. The Spaniards rose in opposition and solicited aid from England, which was freely granted. After losing the great battles of Douro, Talavera, Salamanca and Vittoria, the French were driven out of the peninsula, and the rightful king, Ferdinand VII, was established on the Spanish throne.

Not Greatly Interested.

Margaret had accompanied the family to the movies more often than to church. One morning her parents took her to church, and she found it rather dull. Toward the end of the service she looked up sleepily, and in a voice perfectly audible all over the church she called out: "Papa, is this the last reel?"

Old Romany Patteran
Thing of the Past

Romany patteran is a gypsy phrase that is seen only occasionally in print. Kipling, Jack London and a few other writers have used it to describe the signs or trails left by gypsies. While the phrase is used only occasionally, it is used probably more in the United States where gypsies are abandoning their red waddies for speedier though less romantic automobiles.

Patteran, patrinn, and patten are three words in Romanes, or the gypsy language, which signify the signs which one gypsy leaves in the road to show the route he has taken to friends who are following. The sign, or patteran, is usually found at the forks of a road. It may be a handful of grass or leaves thrown down at the head of a road, a bit of colored cloth tied to a fence, a cross mark on the ground, or a branch of a tree stuck in the ground by the roadside. However, the true patteran is a handful of leaves; for the word in the gypsy language means the leaf of a tree.

The use of a patteran is understood, but not extensively practiced by gypsies. American gypsies probably use it less than those of some other countries. Highways and automobiles make the leaving of a trail impracticable, and the Romany patteran is even now spoken of by modern gypsies as a method used by the puro folkies drey the puro cheeros; that is, the old people in the old days.—George Gatlin in Adventure Magazine.

Market Ratio of Gold and Silver.

At the present price of foreign silver, 68 cents an ounce, an ounce of gold, $20.67, is worth practically thirty times the value of an ounce of silver. The United States government paid a dollar an ounce for silver produced in the United States under a law passed during the World war, which provided for selling about 300,000,000 American silver dollars, melted into bullion, to the English government, and for the replacement of these silver dollars by purchase of silver from domestic producers at a dollar an ounce, regardless of its world value. On this basis the ratio of gold to silver value is about twenty to one.

KEEPING WELL
WHERE DOES YOUR MILK COME FROM?
DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

HERBERT HOOVER says the cow is man's best friend.
In spite of the poetry, eulogy and fine sentiment that have been written around the horse, the dog and the cat, he votes for the cow.
"Looking at her as she stands in the fresh grass by the brookside, patient, fawn-eyed, unpretentious, one would never suspect," he says, "that she saved the lives of 12,000,000 children. She is the best friend that war-worn Europe found in the world. She overcame the enemies that walk in the wake of war—famine and pestilence, and children dwarfed and limbless. Every two dairy cows in the United States, on the average, have saved one child's life in Europe, in addition to doing their duty at home."
Milk is nature's food. It is the only food which the mother produces from her own body for her offspring. Its use as food began very early in human history.
In primitive races, a man's wealth depended on the number of milk-producing animals he owned. Abraham, the father of the Jewish people, was a man of influence because of his flocks and herds. When he went out of Ur of Chaldeia, the seat of early civilization, into Canaan, the Promised Land, he took his cattle with him, not only to provide food on the way, but also as the foundation for the wealth of the new nation.
The most vigorous and longest lived races have been the largest milk consumers.

Under primitive conditions, there was no pure milk problem. Milk was produced in healthful surroundings and was consumed as fast as it was produced. Even a few generations ago, each family kept its own cow or bought its next door neighbor's surplus.
Today, even in small cities, milk is furnished by local dairy companies and is brought to the door every morning, like the daily newspaper. It comes from many widely separated farms; it is carried by wagon, trolley car or railroad train to the dairy station; it is mixed, bottled and distributed to customers who have no idea where it comes from.

So its purity and cleanliness is an important problem.
"Where does your milk come from? Is it produced from healthy cows, in clean barns? Is it shipped in clean cans? Is it properly pasteurized? Is it delivered to you in clean bottles, tightly sealed?
If you don't know, find out. All reputable milk dealers will be glad to tell you.
Our milk today is closely watched and guarded.
Be sure yours comes from a reliable source.

Dairy Exhibits in West States
Main Theme Is It Pays to Keep High-Producing Cows.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

As a part of the extension program on dairying in the western states the United States Department of Agriculture has prepared three sets of dairy exhibits, each different from the others, yet all emphasizing the same fundamental factors underlying successful dairying. The main theme in these exhibits is, it pays to keep good high-producing cows and feed them well.

What Exhibits Show.
One exhibit gives the results of cow-testing association studies. It shows a poor cow, representing a large group, that averaged 150 pounds of butterfat a year, with an income over feed cost of only $26 per cow. Contrasted with this is a good cow, representing another large group, that averaged 300 pounds of butterfat a year, with an income over feed cost of $74 per year per cow. The owner of the low producers had to house, feed, and care for three cows to get the same income over cost of feed that the owner of the good cows got from one.

These exhibits also show that the way to get high producers is to use good bulls, keep records of production, cull the herd, and raise heifers from the best cows. Having got good cows, the suggestions are made to feed liberally, have good pastures and use them properly, provide silage for winter feeding, and be sure the ration contains sufficient mineral matter, which it is suggested should be supplied by feeding plenty of alfalfa, clover, or other legume hay.

Work for High Quality.
One part of these exhibits emphasizes the importance of producing dairy products of the best quality. High quality is associated with such fundamental practices as clean cows, small-top milking pails, thorough washing and steaming of utensils, quick cooling of the milk or cream to low temperatures, and finally quick and frequent delivery to market.

Another section compares dairy cows with a single and double-track railroad. As the double-track railroad does more than twice the business of a single-track railroad, so the cow that produces 300 pounds of butterfat a year yields more than twice as much income over feed cost as the cow that produces 150 pounds of butterfat a year.

Frequent Cultivations Essential for Potatoes

Potatoes are a quick crop in growth, hence they require very frequent cultivation for best growth and maturity. Most farmers do not cultivate their potatoes often enough to make the crop as profitable as it might be. Three or four cultivations will keep the weeds down in a potato patch, but it requires six or eight or more cultivations to produce a fine potato crop. Every cultivation probably pays better than for any other cultivated crop. It must be remembered that the potato crop suffers readily from continued dry weather, and that frequent cultivations are practically the only means by which the moisture can be conserved. Frequent cultivations also set free much plant food that would otherwise remain locked up in the soil. It requires only an hour or two to run over quite a good-sized patch of potatoes with a horse and cultivator, and the results are far better than when a hoe is used.

Green Stuff Important for Flock of Pullets

Very often in the late summer the range on which the pullets are being reared runs down until there is nothing left but a baked soil and a rank stand of weeds. Real grass feed which the chickens can eat is essential to normal growth. Shade and fresh cool water are also important.

Do not feed over ten per cent meat in the growing mash as a high protein ration will mature the pullet instead of developing growth. Thirty-five pounds of cornmeal, twenty-five pounds bran, twenty-five pounds middlings, ten pounds meat scrap and five pounds bone meal is suggested. Milk may replace the meat, but do not leave out the bone meal particularly in this case.

Goslings Get Diarrhea

Goslings sometimes have diarrhea and digestive disorders as a result of heavy feeding with sloppy mashies or drinking stagnant water that is quite unclean. A good mash for goslings can be made of equal parts corn meal, bran, middlings and rolled oats mixed with skim milk. Perform a postmortem on any goslings that die, and note the condition of the internal organs and contents of the crop. Usually there is little trouble raising goslings when they have plenty of fresh green grass and shade.

Kill Striped Beetle

For the striped potato beetle use lead arsenate either as a spray or dust. As a spray use it at the rate of 1 pound of powder to 100 gallons of water or 9½ level teaspoonsfuls to one gallon of water. If used as a dust mix with pure gypsum or sulphur, or dilute one pound with 10 pounds of hydrated lime. Apply whenever needed, covering all parts of the plants.

The Whale as an Eater.
The whale rarely, if ever, swallows anything larger than a herring. Although the head is of enormous size, from one-quarter to one-third length of the body, and the mouth fifteen to twenty feet long and six to eight feet wide, the opening of the gullet is not larger than a man's fist.

A word to the wise is sufficient. Better have those winter clothes thoroly cleaned before it is too late. BEWARE OF THE MOTHS. Send them to Barnhill's South Court St.

Sick Poultry Can Be Cured Any Season of the Year.
Circleville, Ohio R. F. D. 1, August 26, 1924.

Mr. Fickardt:—
I have raised chickens for many years but my experiences this year have been more trying than any previous season that I can recall. All spring I had been having trouble with my flock, both young and old, and during the month of July I lost about one hundred of my chickens, quite a number had limber neck.

About August 1, I was nearly frantic and did not know which way to turn. I ran across about this time a bottle of Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops and I can say that the results I obtained have fully justified your statements.

One case of limber neck was too sick to take the medicine as the other chickens did, but I gave it some with a medicine dropper thinking then that it was a waste of time, but the next morning it was still around and it finally got well. The rest of the flock have straightened out and they are doing well now.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Lucy Honnald.

CONNETT HATS
since 1815

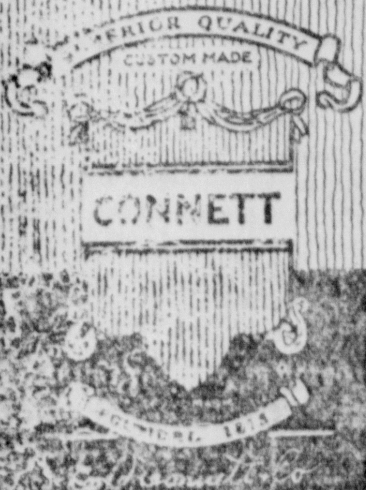

The Season's Hat

THE Connett "Rutland" is proving to be one of the most popular of the season's distinctive hats. It is a perfectly proportioned hat of fine quality. Its outstanding feature is the fact that it looks well on all types of men, with its rather low-cut brim, designed to be worn in its original shape or turned down. Try on the "Rutland."

Since 1815 the Connetts have been manufacturing felt hats in which quality and distinction have been uppermost. The accumulated experience of one hundred and nine years has built up an enviable reputation for Connett Hats throughout the most exclusive stores. It is conceded that where their name appears you will find real hat value.

The large Fall assortment we carry will make it easy for you to choose a becoming hat. It will be a pleasure to help make your selection.

OLD WESTERN TRAIL IS SCENIC HIGHWAY

Stretches From Salt Lake
City to Alden Gulch.

One of the attractive northwestern routes which is being improved for the increasing summer travel to the Yellowstone and Glacier National parks, traverses the old stage route of pioneer days known as the Corinne trail, leading from Salt Lake City to Alder gulch, near Dillon, Mont. The road from Salt Lake City, starting from the Brigham Young monument, has been paved with concrete from that point through Ogden, the second largest city of Utah, and continuing 22 miles further to Brigham. A few miles beyond there is another concrete surface through Logan to Smithfield.

Crossing into Idaho, the country becomes rolling and is chiefly adapted to dry farming and stock raising. Beyond Pocatello, the great Fort Hill Indian reservation is reached, where the ruins of the first settlement in Idaho may yet be seen, the site being an old Hudson's Bay trading post. At Idaho Falls, in the Snake River valley, the road leads toward Yellowstone park by way of Rexburg. This is the region which was explored by Lewis and Clark in 1805, and is the original home of the Blackfoot tribe of Shoshone Indians.

The road then enters the mountains, according to a description in the Concrete Highway Magazine, winding through the Targhee National forest and excellent trout streams to West Yellowstone. Toward the west is a magnificent wilderness where the headwaters of the Missouri river have their origin. Following the Centennial valley to Menida and Dillon, the town of Armstead is passed, where there is a fine memorial erected by the women of Montana in memory of the squaw, Sacajewea, who piloted Lewis and Clark through the territory.

Just beyond Dillon, the site of the State Normal college, is Bannack, the first capital of Montana. At this spot gold was discovered and at Hangman's gulch the Vigilants rid the state of bandits.

Through the Big Hole valley, then across the Continental divide into the beautiful Bitter Root valley, the highway continues to Missoula, the center of western Montana and the home of the state university. Northward, the road crosses the Flathead Indian reserve, where buffalo still range, and penetrates the land of the Selish, peace-loving Indians who still live in native picturesqueness. A splendid road follows the western shore of Flathead lake, the largest body of fresh water in the United States, excepting the Great Lakes. Beyond the lake are the stupendous, snow-capped peaks of the Lingalim and then Kalispell is reached, the gateway to the Glacier National park.

A few miles beyond the boundary line is crossed in Canada and the road continues north along the recently completed Banff-Windermere road through virgin mountain and forest country to Lake Louise and Banff, the Switzerland of America.

Saved Lambing Loss

Almost every imaginable business depends in some way on the weather. A sheep raiser was ready to send a flock of rams to the range lands, but, having previously suffered losses at lambing time, inquired of the local weather bureau station of the United States Department of Agriculture for weather conditions on his range 144 days from the date of the arrival of the rams. The weather could not be predicted that far in advance; but curves showing mean daily minimum temperatures and latest spring killing frosts indicated a period of relative safety beginning shortly after May 20. His previous losses had occurred when the lambs were dated prior to May 15, as had been warranted on another range. Since that injury, two successful seasons have followed in those herds, the lambs being brought in late May or early June, as suggested by the weather records.

Honors in Store

The dignities that confront the elder brother are usually appalling to the small sister, and there is a little girl in Baltimore who has been giving the subject much careful attention. She electrified the family at breakfast on one occasion by announcing:

"Next year Samuel will be a lawn-mower. I wonder why they call him that."

"A lawn-mower?" echoed the astonished mother. "What do you mean?" "That is what you told me," replied the little maid, gravely. "This year he was a freshman. Next year he'll be a lawn-mower, and then a janitor and then a senator. And then he'll graduate."—Baltimore Sun.

Letter From the Sea

A letter which had been tossed about in the Atlantic for three weeks was recently received by a Plymouth resident. His son, an engineer on a steamer bound for Vancouver, placed the letter in a sealed tin with a flag attached, and dropped it overboard. Three weeks later the tin was washed ashore on the Azores islands, where it was found by fishermen, who forwarded the letter by post.—London Tit-Bits.

His Choice

"Who is your favorite poet, Mr. Gloom?" asked Tennyson J. Daft, the versatile versificationist. "Any of the dead ones!" snapped J. Fuller Gloom, the human hyena.—Kansas City Star.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

LONDON'S IDEA OF LEGION BASEBALL

A recent baseball game played by members of the London post of the American Legion brought forth the following comment in the London Daily Herald:

"That the American Legion should have chosen the Chelsea football ground for their baseball rendezvous reflects their sense of propriety. The game should be called 'glorified rounders.' One ceases to wonder why the adjectives 'fierce' and 'husky' are so popular in the American vocabulary after witnessing a 'ball game.'"

"To the uninitiated the most unfortunate man on the field seems to be the club-slinger. He goes in carrying a club not unlike a pick handle. No sooner has he taken up his position than the 'catcher' behind him, feeling comparatively safe in a mask and breast-protector, tells him what a bloody, decomposed player he is, and the 'pitcher' who delivers the ball, being well out of reach of the club, keeps up a continual stream of unkind remarks, at the same time executing a kind of war dance, and ends by slugging the ball at the club-slinger as hard as he can throw it.

"Then the spectators join in. Should the club-slinger slug the ball out of the grounds and run round the three bases, all his sins are forgiven and he is a 'sure-go-getter,' but should he miss the ball altogether he is a 'wall-eyed mutt,' and advised to borrow a door or get a pair of 'horn-rims.' This unfortunate club-slinger has many ways of escape. He can be thrown out, run out, caught stealing or talked out. Many times the 'pitcher' tries to knock him out by hitting him with the ball. "The 'top-notch' club-slingers in America are reported to draw salaries equaling those of English cabinet ministers. This may be due to the cost of life insurance premiums."

Trust Fund to Care for Legionnaires When Old

Against the time when the Legionnaires are old and few and intervening years and events have crowded out of the public mind the service of 1917-18, the Hennepin county central committee is proposing to set up a $500,000 trust fund. For the aged Legionnaires of the future who may have suffered "the stings and arrows of outrageous fortune" and must turn to a new Minneapolis that does not know them, the young Legionnaires of today propose to make their $18,000 Poppy day trust fund, a nucleus of a much greater foundation.

E. C. Nicholson, commander of the Hennepin county central committee, stated recently that a first campaign for the additional fund may be waged this fall. Only the interest from the Poppy day fund is now usable, and the new fund likewise would be held in trust with only the interest available except in most unusual cases, and then only on a virtually unanimous vote of the Legion.

In the end, when the last Legionnaire had died, the trust fund would go to the Minneapolis foundation.

Coolidge Compliments Worker Among Disabled

Mrs. Belle Nye of Albuquerque, N. M., past national historian of the American Legion auxiliary, recently interviewed President Coolidge and General Hines, head of the United States veterans' bureau, in the interest of the disabled service persons of New Mexico. President Coolidge communicated with Mrs. Nye as follows: "My Dear Mrs. Nye:

"I am very glad to learn through the interest of Senator Bursum about the fine work you are doing among the disabled soldiers. I want you to know how keen is my own interest in their behalf and how much I appreciate the efforts of people like yourself, who give so freely and willingly to better their condition.

"Most sincerely yours,
"CALVIN COOLIDGE."

Largest Post in World Does Not Need Charity

Fifty-three more members, and the Omaha post of the American Legion, largest in the world, will have passed the 3,000 mark. The Omaha post recently passed a resolution asking that it not be included in the Omaha Community Chest, funds from which are allotted to various organizations for charitable purposes. Omaha post stated in this regard: "It has been our proud boast that the post has been self-supporting. We have sought members on the basis that each member should 'help carry a buddy's pack.' We should dislike to see the Legion, particularly the largest post in the world, forsake this policy and become dependent upon the Community Chest."

How do you
Like your trousers,
Wide or otherwise?

"How wide are the trousers this fall?" is a question we are asked a dozen times a day.

Some men are hoping we'll say: "Awfully Wide." Others are awfully anxious to hear us answer, "Much Narrower."

Here's the truth---

The correct Fall models at Colwell & Katz comes in two widths one for the man who likes his trousers medium, the other for the chaps who like their widths well done.

If your legs rebel at looking like a sailor's, here is an ocean of suits with medium bottom trousers.

BUT—if you want to cut things high, wide and handsome, we can give you a 20-inch bottom without turning things bottom side up.
